Engineered Wood Flooring

We also supply engineered hardwood flooring .We control every step of the floors manufacturing, from collecting the logs to bespoke surface treatment. We provide highly competitive pricing and we insure that each product we sell meets the highest quality standards. We carefully select well known brands when applying floor treatments and bespoke finishes.

Our engineered hardwood flooring is versatile and innovative, allowing you to install your chosen color, cut, finish, and surface texture in areas where solid hardwood is not recommended. This means you get the effect you want without having to worry as much about the moisture levels and temperatures in your space.

For the advantage of real hardwood in areas where solid wood floors are not recommended, engineered hardwood flooring is your clear choice for interiors, like:

1. Better for below-grade installations - basements, where dampness is common.
2. Over heating systems, which tend to dry out solid hardwood, causing the boards to shrink and buckle.
3. On a concrete subfloor, either as a direct glue-down or a floating floor.
4. Geographical areas with extreme climate conditions.
5. The ease of installation similar to laminate floors - faster completion time, less mess, real wood.
6. Can be sanded up to three times

Our engineered hardwood flooring is available in such grades: Rustic, Nature, Select.
